

Corona virus: process and chain of announcement source: dpa; RKI, Bundesgesundheitsministerium

Handling the corona virus Covid-19 within the DRK-Kreisverband Weserbergland`s establishments

Dear (caring) relatives, dear parents and grandparents, dear patients and customers, the corona virus Covid-19 is spreading further. First cases within Lower Saxony have become evident.

Everyday you trust us with the safety and health of your children as well as your own. The DRK-Kreisverband Weserbergland e.V. is aiming to provide the same standard as care, for you and your loved ones and is working on plans to keep business running as usual even if the outbreak should spread more than anticipated.

Of course our staff is in keeping with the hygiene standards and is encouraged to teach and explain these to your children and relatives, so that they will also use them at home. To make these easier for your own comfort we have put them together for you (see right hand side). Please try live by these for the safety of our community.

Should you or a relative have the suspicion that you might have caught the virus, please call your GP to minimise the risk of other people catching it from you in the waiting area. Please use our drawing 'Corona virus: Process and way of announcement'.

We wish you and your relatives all the best. Stay healthy.

Thomas Müller
CEO

The ten most important hygiene recommendations regularly wash hands wash hands thoroughly

keep hands away from face cough and sneeze into elbow keep your distance

protect cuts and sores

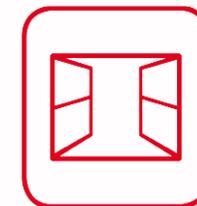

keep home clean

stay hygienic with foods wash clothes on high temperatures air out quarters

infektionsschutz.de

Wissen, was schützt.